The Zodiac cover design by Phil Crume, senior art student, symbolizes the spirit of change that enveloped Astoria High School this year. The long tradition of Metro League competition with Portland suburban schools came to an end with the creation of the new 15-member Coast-Valley league in September, 1970.

Although the Fishermen found the going rough in football and basketball, they fared better in other sports and areas of competition. A chief benefit of the new league is the bringing together into common endeavors schools of similar sizes and compatible interests. This change, though still in the beginning stages, offers prospects for renewed vigor in all interscholastic endeavors.

The miniature Coast-Valley Zodiac symbol on all divider pages calls your attention to the changing scene. A special effort has been made to innovate a new style and arrangement in the Fishermen's yearbook, The Zephyrus, to recognize the change in direction of Astoria High School.

ACHIEVEMENTS

HIGH Q

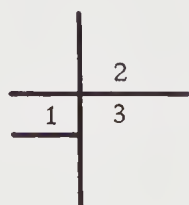

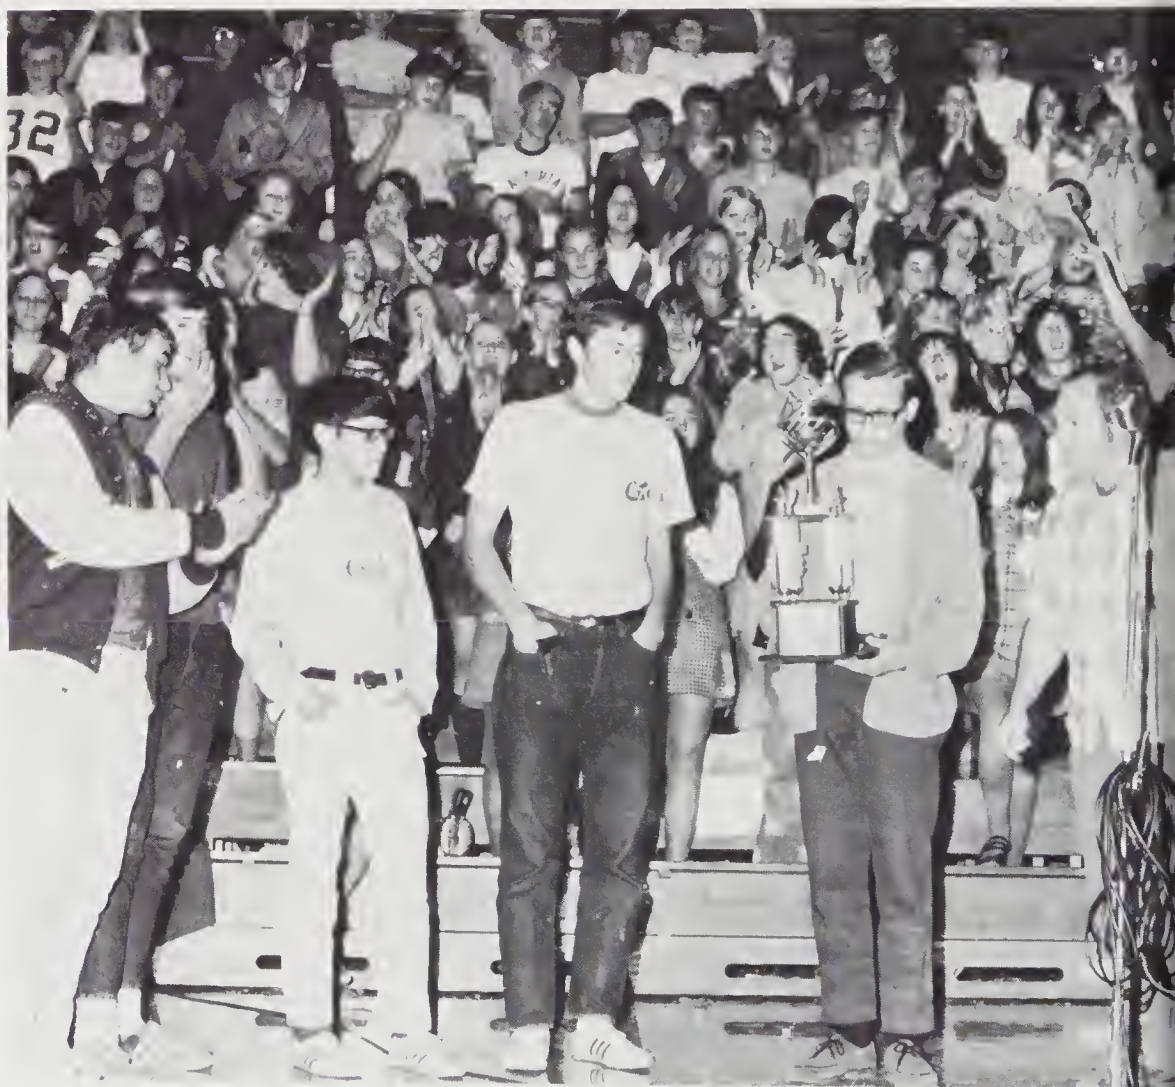

Three Big Wins

For the second consecutive year, Astoria representatives won a championship on the fast-answering game, High-Q, in competition on Portland's KGW-TV. Astoria downed Clatskanie, 250-45; Hood River, 195-130; and McNary, 240-80.

Prizes, besides a trophy, were gifts of books to the school library: THE CASCADES, three copies; OREGON, two copies; WASHINGTON, two; and CALIFORNIA, one. J. K. Gill of Portland was donor.

ROBB LAW WINS

Bausch & Lomb

Winner of the Bausch and Lomb award, given to exceptional science seniors, was Robb Law.

Bausch and Lomb is an honorary award that made Robb eligible for a scholarship at the University of Rochester. He turned down the scholarship in order to attend Stanford University.

Robb was picked by the science department on his ability in the fields of biology, chemistry, and physics.

MU ALPHA THETA Inducts Seven

At Mu Alpha Theta's induction May 11, seven students, all sophomores, were accepted into membership. Presiding over the ceremony was president Milt Sagen, with vice-president Tim Fastabend and secretary-treasurer Berta Frame also present. An induction team, made up of Conrad Timmerman, Don Orwick, and Bill Patterson, spoke on the history and usefulness of mathematics. Following the ceremony, refreshments were served, and the initiates set about doing their first chore as Mu Alpha Theta members--setting the cafeteria back in order.

BOYS AGAIN WIN

Scholar Honors

For the first time in four years two boys received the outstanding achievement award of Valedictorian and Salutatorian. They are Robb Law, left, and Don Orwick.

Valedictorian Robb Law with a straight 4.00 GPA has received the Readers Digest Award, RCA scholarship, and the AHS Achievement Award. A National Merit Finalist, he plans to attend Stanford University to major in premedicine; he would like to pursue the profession of general practitioner. Robb's record is one of the most outstanding Astoria has ever had. Besides winning awards, he likes to read and play bridge. Robb also did some wrestling on the side.

Don Orwick, Salutatorian with a grade point of 3.955, won the Astoria High School achievement award. Don plans to attend Oregon State majoring in engineering. In his limited amount of spare time, Don likes to play golf. The golf team accepted him as fifth man, and Don, too, takes this seriously which was evidenced by the district championship the team won. He is also found on the tennis courts during the summer.

HONOR SOCIETY Inducts 55

Character, leadership, and scholarship (3.25 G.P.A.) are stressed in the Columbia Chapter of National Honor Society. Fifty-five students who had been faithful to their studies and met the strict qualifications were inducted in May.

Junior and Senior newly inducted members are: Vicki Berger, Bernie Bjork, Bernie Burkholder, Jim Dunagan, Paulette Hankel, David Sunell, Mary Abrahamson, Tim Kuppenbender, Craig Meyer, Janice Morgan, Milt Sagen, Dorinda Savage, Scott Stemper, Paul Stromsness, and Giomar Traverso.

BAND AND DRAMA

Honor Three

Band, chorus and drama awards traditionally are coveted in the fine arts. This year's Thespian-of-the-Year honor went to Karen Kinnunen for work behind stage, particularly in wardrobe. In music, the Arion award of many years was replaced by the John Philip Sousa citation, and this year was shared by Joyce Smith and Anne Barney. No nominations were made for vocal music.

- 1/KAREN KINNUNEN receives Thespian-Of-Year honor.
- 2/JOYCE SMITH shares John Philip Sousa honor in a tie with Anne Barney.
- 3/ANNE BARNEY is co-winner of John Philip Sousa award of high school band.

Homecoming will still remain.

HOMECOMING

COMPETITION ROUGH

Spirit High

The spirit of Halloween was easy to find during Homecoming activities. The week of class competition started out with the presentation of the princesses, followed later in the week by the coronation of Queen Giomar Traverso. Thursday night each class' spirit soared as they rallied about the huge bonfire. The spirit remained high through Friday's pep assembly and the exciting Homecoming game with McMinnville. At the game it was announced that the seniors were victorious over the week of activities. The annual Homecoming dance topped off a week of fun and excitement at Astoria High.

FALL SPORTS

CROSS COUNTRY

District Champs

In the first year of the new Coast Valley League, the Astoria High Varsity not only took league honors but also finished 11th in State. After completing a perfect league season with a 14-win, no-loss record, the Cross Country team took the district playoffs with all 6 runners finishing in the top 24. Then they traveled to Eugene for the State championship where they finished 11th out of 16 teams. This year's most valuable runner was Senior Erkki Ojala. Erkki is a four-year varsity man who took second at district and finished highest of the Astoria runners at State, in addition to several first-place finishes in league action.

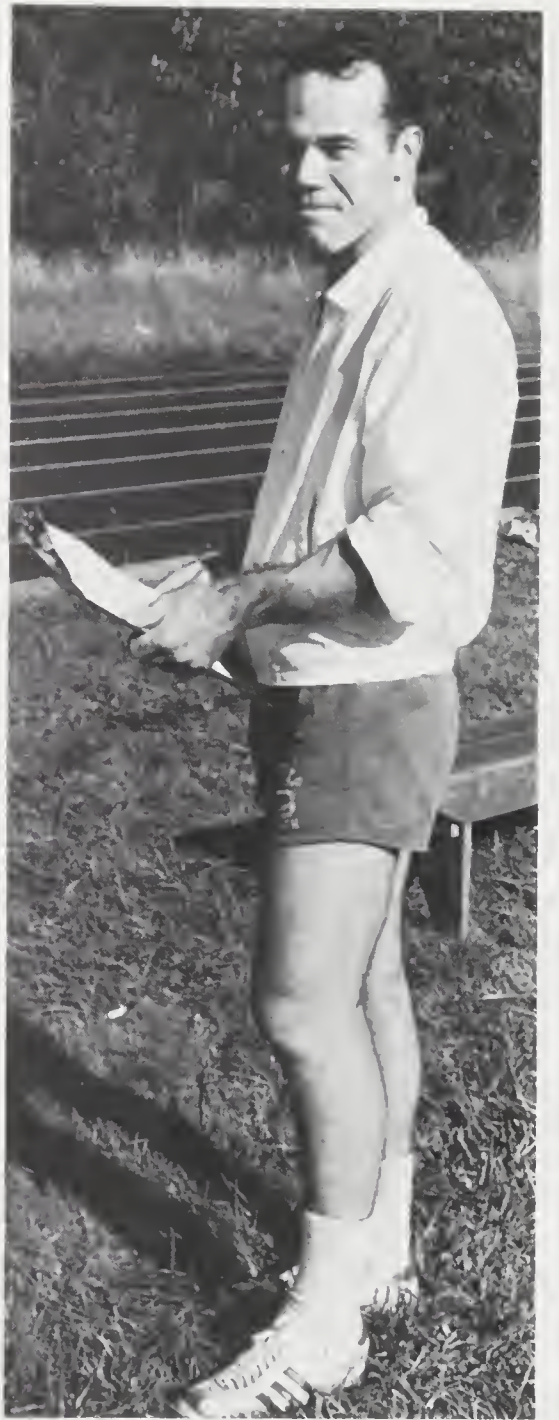

The Junior Varsity Cross Country team completed an 8-0-1 season on their way to the Coast Valley championship. The team, consisting of sophomores Steve Hendrickson, Dan Heiner, Bruce Mullins, and freshmen Richard Bingham, and Ken Booth, finished with an undefeated record in 9 league tries, and also took the district championship with Astoria taking 1st, 3rd, 5th and 6th places.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Tough League

Numerous injuries and a lot of bad breaks plagued the Fishermen in the premier season of the brand-new Coast-Valley league. "A 3-5-1 record isn't a championship season, but it represents the city and the community well," commented Head Coach Chuck Burns. He said the team was disappointed that they hadn't done as well as they hoped, but he also added that it was very rewarding to see the team give their very best effort.

JV'S SET RECORDS

Sparkling Team

Coach Al Jacobson in his first year in the Astoria system guided his J. V. football team to an outstanding season, beating six Coast-Valley foes and deadlocking another. In six games the team had scored 286 points for an average of 47.4 points per game. The sparkling J. V.'s also had the best season record of any Coast-Valley squad, and the 100 to 6 score against Molalla is a league and state record. The only blemish on the record was the 14-14 tie played at Newberg; this also was the lowest score tallied by the squad this year.

UPPER: Exultant Greg Arceneaux (15) proclaims touchdown in game on home field. LOWER: Coach Al Jacobson and Assistant Don Heuberger confer at bench.

STUDENT STAFF

Publishes Post

Best known as the Astor Post staff, journalism students publishing the school newspaper consist of two sections. First-year students learn fundamentals and are gradually broken into actual publication work. Second-year students put out the newspaper under the supervision of Mr. Russell Albourn, advisor.

The Post is not published at regular intervals. This year 10 issues were issued. In its second year of offset printing, the Post made notable improvements in picture reproduction. The Post was financed one-third by advertising and two-thirds by student fees.

Staff members were: Peter Huhtala, editor; Mary Hendrickson, Diane Cordiner, and Sallie Estes, page editors; Tim Kuppenbender, sports; Roxy Lizon, art; Dorothy Patching, business; Peggy Johnson, advertising; Kent Beck, photographer; Cheryl Clark, exchanges; Mike Blackburn, Linda Kukkola, Barbara McGowan, Sally Mittet, Teresa Nelson, Bill Owen, Karla Plaskett, and Lou Ann Tadei, reporters.

1/AT WORK are Linda Kukkola, Tim Kuppenbender, Bill Owen, Cheryl Clark and Barbara McGowan.

2/PAGE EDITORS Diane Cordiner and Mary Hendrickson discuss layouts.

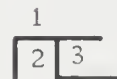

ZEPHYRUS USES

Larger Staff

An expansion of staff to 25 to give more students an opportunity to take a journalism elective was a major feature of the yearbook.

To accommodate the bigger staff, a shift was made from editorial sections to page assignments and area coordinators. The big staff also was helpful in handling the glut of pictures that the Zephyrus received at times instead of the preferred steady flow.

- 1/ PEGGY GJOVIK and Marie Begleries plan layouts.
- 2/ ALICE FISHER and Barbara Lake in attendance at a Yearbook Workshop.
- 3/ JUDY CRAVEN, Nancy Tilden, and Nancy Clendenning put the finishing touches on the School Board page.

Assembly Fare

Assemblies should have had something to please everyone--with band concerts, a visiting U.S. senator, a nuclear exhibit, pre-game sketches and rallies, a high school circus and other varied programs.

Attendance, however, indicated that not everyone was pleased at the same time. With most assemblies held in the afternoon, and with attendance optional for upperclassmen, the audience often was sparse in relation to the 750 student body membership. Even for the end-of-the-year speeches of next year's officer candidates, most students preferred to frolic in one of those rare afternoons of sunshine.

TRIES NEW IDEAS

Student Council

In the words of student body president Rod Leback, "The aim of student council was to be responsive to student desires." As a result of this goal, a student grievance committee was established. Other activities included donating to the Verna Christenson Fund, the carnival and designating money for a mural to beautify the school.

- 1/COUNCIL MEMBERS discuss uses for profits made on the carnival.
- 2/STUDENT BODY officers Cindy Jones, Dave Nikka, Bill Clayton, Mary Hendrickson and Tom Dulcich gather around President Rod Leback, third from left.

ARTS BANQUET HEARS Drama Honor

Talented students and other devotees of the creative arts reviewed the year's productions at the annual Fine Arts banquet. Karen Kinnunen was honored as Thespian of the Year. The high school choir ensemble performed.

- 1/ENTERTAINMENT at the Fine Arts banquet included this dance by Vicki Berger.
- 2/WORK BEHIND STAGE wins Thespian Of Year award being received by Karen Kinnunen from Mr. Kenneth Chapman, drama director.

SPRING PLAY

'Damn Yankees'

A March 10 - 13 dramatic production of the students of Astoria High School was the musical comedy, "Damn Yankees". It is the story of an avid Washington Senators fan, Joe Boyd, who would give anything if the Senators could beat the New York Yankees and win the pennant. Joe Boyd meets up with Mr. Applegate, the devil, who changes him into a super baseball player, enabling him to play for the Senators. Mr. Kenneth Chapman was director; Mr. Dwight Phelps, in charge of vocal music; Mr. James Hansen, instrumental; and Miss Ardi Urell, choreography.

LIBRARY THEME

Animal Farm

Animal Farm was the theme of the annual girl-ask-boy Library Dance. Students danced in an atmosphere of a farm with drawings of various animals. The dance was held in the cafeteria instead of the library as in previous years because of lack of room. The music for the dance was provided by Family Tradition.

Gale-velocity winds and a downpour of traditional rain severely crippled attendance at the second biennial all-school carnival on May 15. Participating with booths were 21 clubs. WINTER SPORTS

VARSITY BASKETBALL

New Coast League Big Headache

Astoria sports were bounced into a very new and tough league this year. "The Coast Valley league would be a rough league as shown by your 13-7 game series," said Coach Don Haynes.

Honors went to the starting guards of Astoria; Willis Van Dusen was pronounced as first team all star in the Coast Valley league. Tom Alfonse was selected for honorable mention.

The team had to travel for longer distances for scheduled games in this league than in the Metro league. Tough teams and crowds were frequent. Replacing Coach Don Haynes who is moving to Twin Falls, Idaho, will be Al Jacobson who was the sophomore basketball coach.

JUNIOR VARSITY

Fishermen Second in League

As seemed to be the tradition last year, Astoria's Junior Varsity contingent, this one basketball, stepped to the floor and somewhat shadowed the varsity.

Coach Chuck Burns had nothing but praise for his young team, who compiled a 16-4 record in the tough Coast-Valley league, good enough for second place.

He had his praises for some great individual effort, too, namely: Tom Dulcich, leading scorer and rebounder; top playmaker Bernie Bjork; and, in Coach Burns' opinion, the team's most improved player, Steve Antoniou. He also had comments on the "fine floor play" of Bjork, Don Lampi, and Vince Tarabochia.

- 3/PASSING OFF to Mike Jurasin is Tom Dulcich (34), team's leading scorer.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Earns Second

A hard-fought loss to Knappa gave the Girls Athletic Association basketball team second place in the district tourney. Outstanding player selected by ballot was Teresa Budde, captain.

"As coach, I could not be prouder. Coming within three points of winning the district championship, they played hard but always kept in mind the most important rule in Girls Basketball, Sportsmanship," Miss Barbara Brown said.

Varied Events

Much has been done to promote friendliness and involvement in Girls League. Starting the year off, Girls League held a slumber party, primarily to acquaint big and little sisters. Winter saw the coming of a silent auction and the Father-Daughter banquet. The theme was Life With Father with brown and orange as the color scheme. Electing Miss Merry Christmas and King Noel was a highlight of the Girls League's preparation for the Christmas season. Chosen were Paulette Hankel and Kirk Ihander of the Junior Class. Spring came with the selling of friendship cards, licorice and lifesavers, and the Mother-Daughter banquet. These were combination money-making projects.

"Girls League has done extremely well this year considering the financial circumstances at the beginning of the year," stated Mrs. Schlieski, Girls League advisor.

Every other Sunday, for four Sundays, the ski bus left the school parking lot at 6 a.m. and returned at 9:30 p.m. Each student paid a total of $11 for each trip to Mt. Hood.

If enough interest is shown, Mr. Korpela plans to continue the club next year. Officers will be elected and fund-raising projects will be held.

SPORTS CELEBRATE

Great Spring

ASTORIA'S MOST SUCCESSFUL year in spring sports was celebrated at the annual All-Sports banquet on May 25. Awards presented in addition to those pictured on these pages were: Erkki Ojala, most outstanding in cross country; Jim Rodgers, special award for four years of varsity baseball play; Todd Burns, most outstanding golfer.

Numerous other plaques not previously received in fall and winter sports were presented. In general, participation in the new Coast Valley league saw Astoria teams having more success in areas of individual performance.

GIRLS QUALIFY ONE District Entry

Outstanding performer of the Girls Athletic Association track and field team was Connie Cellars, who qualified for district competition in the high jump. However, an injury prevented her from qualifying for the state championship meet.

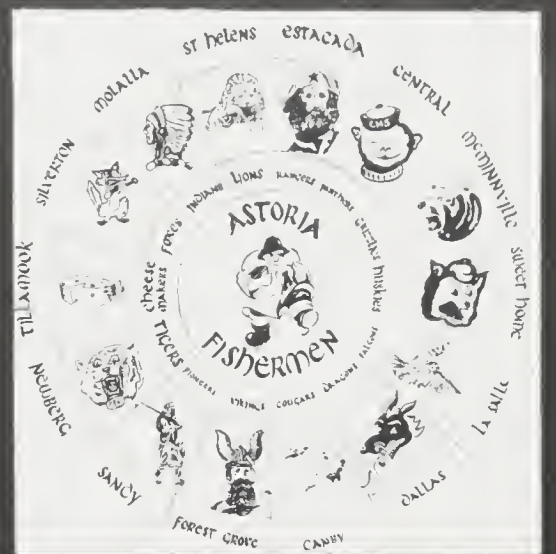

This was the first season for girls participation in the Coast-Valley league. Although team performance was not outstanding, individual efforts resulted in personal high achievements for many, Miss Barbara Brown, coach, said. Ten freshmen girls competed and show promise of a better team next year.

FACULTY

DIRECTORS

Meet Problems

Arriving at solutions for old problems and encountering new problems kept the 1970-71 district board of directors busy.

"Policy and curriculum are major concerns of this board," stated Mr. Lester Spofford, chairman of the board. "A great many other objectives are closely related as well, and all merit deliberate consideration."

Each board member is elected for a five-year term. Every spring one new member is elected to replace the outgoing member. Outgoing member was Mr. Spofford.

SCHOOL LEADERS

Note Milestone

Being in the new Coast Valley league hasn't changed the school a great deal according to Daniel R. Clifford, principal, and Dale Evans, assistant principal at Astoria High. There was still a great amount of enthusiasm among students in athletics, speech and other school activities, and competition was just as tough as in our former league. This year seemed to be a get-acquainted year, as almost every school was new to the league.

COUNSELORS

Mull Modules

The goal of a counselor is to help a student, whether it is with a personal or academic problem. Astoria High School had three such skillful people.

Miss Anna Marie Friedrich, Guidance Director, felt that more time was needed to reach a greater number of students through the counseling department. She hoped this situation would be improved through modular scheduling.

Mr. John Dahlsten, boys counselor and psychology teacher, was a new member of the faculty, coming from Chemewa Indian School. Mr. Dahlsten advised Boy's Federation and was the coordinator of the Creative Arts program.

Third member of the counseling staff, Mrs. Fran Schlieski, was Girl's League Advisor and assisted the American Field Service club.

VOCATIONAL ADJUNCT Serves Region

A substantial vocational adjunct to Astoria high school is the Area Vocational Center operated at Miles crossing by the Clatsop county Intermediate Educational district by resolution of each of the participating districts. Other high schools sending students there daily were Seaside, Warrenton, Knappa, and Jewell. Of 230 students attending, 160 went from Astoria. Most of the classes are in two-hour blocks.

Roger Schoenborn is satellite principal. Other teachers join in the offering of courses in agriculture, forestry, and industrial mechanics.

Mr. Schoenborn said avenues are wide open after graduation. Students may still go to a four-year college because all other requirements are met. Students may pursue further vocational training in the community college, enter apprenticeship, or take a job in their field.

HIGH SCHOOL SHOPS

Offer Trades

Vocational courses that may be taken in facilities located in the high school plant include diversified occupations (a course in which students work under supervision at part-time jobs downtown).

Emphasis is on students learning on their own and being creative. In wood shop, students learn to use both hand and power tools, laying out projects, finishing methods. In advanced work, they build cabinets of various types. This year the class built a stairway in the auditorium from the stage to the loft; also, five wooden benches were built and placed in corridors of the school. Metal shop introduces foundry, sheet metal, welding, and machine lathe. Advanced work is on projects of choice. Drafting is a basic course leading to working drawings. In architectural design, each student designs and constructs a model home.

MODERN PROBLEMS

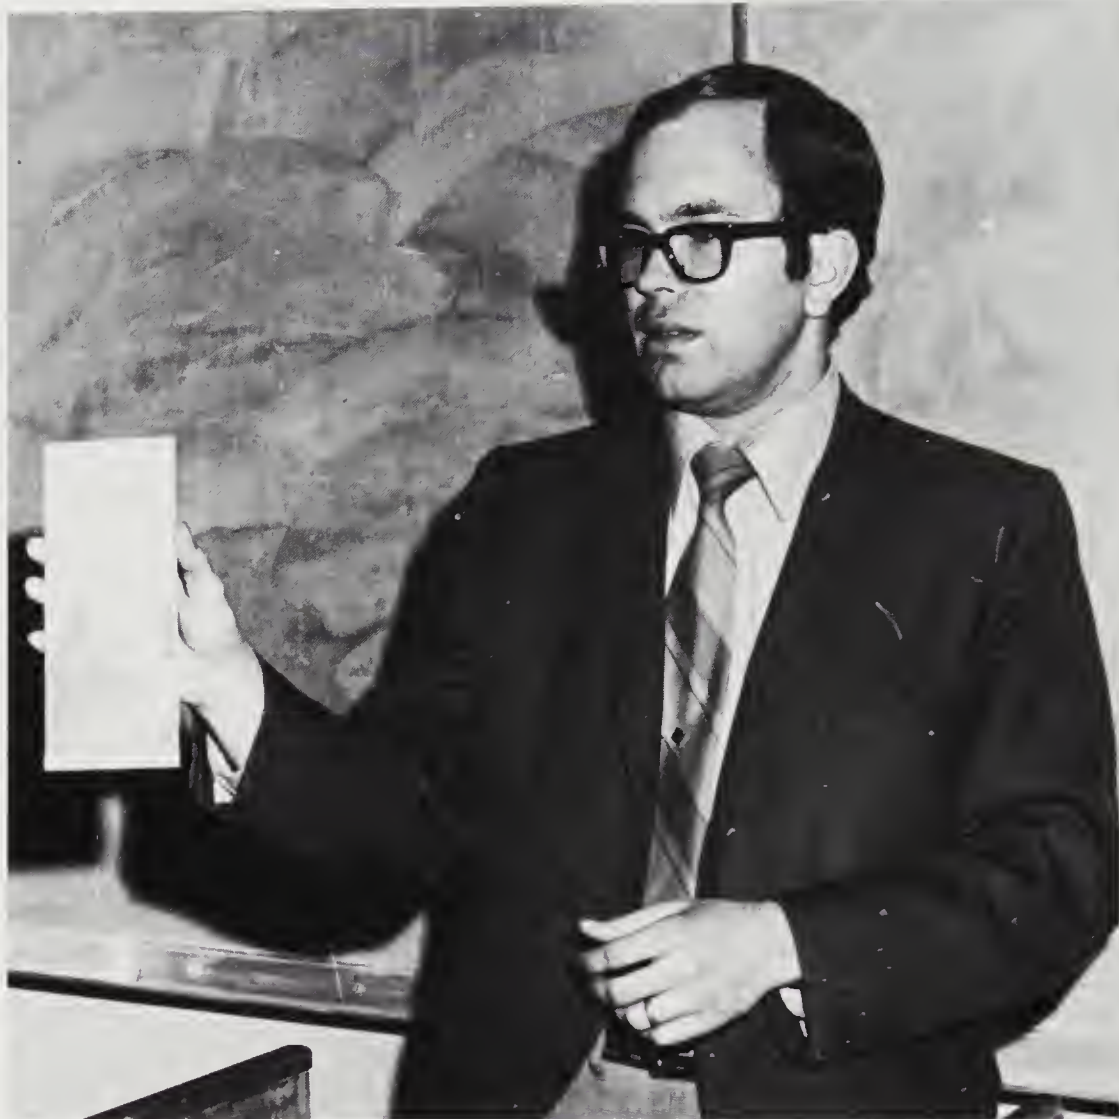

Seeks Truth

To understand one's problems, you must first understand the world's problems. Modern Problems was the class which attempted to achieve just that. Student involvement was stressed and each individual was encouraged to discuss current affairs. Through audio visual materials, guest speakers, and textbooks this class taught the student what it is really like on the outside. By fully understanding what's going on around him, the student has a better chance of succeeding and becoming a useful citizen.

Modern Problems is the last social studies class taken by Astoria High School students and is restricted to seniors. The required course needs new and better textbooks along with more guest speakers and lecturers.

1/CHARLES SARIN: 6 years; B.A., Western Washington State; Modern Problems, Political Science, Senior Class advisor.

2/DON HAYNES: 2 years; B.S., University of Idaho; Modern Problems, Varsity Basketball Coach, chairman of Senior class advisor.

WORLD HISTORY

Tells Why

World History tries to teach the "why's" of history, inserting factual data as it is applicable. Essence of the subject matter is the relationship of the development of Western Europe and the Mediterranean area to the United States and the world. Asia, Africa, and the Middle East also are touched upon. The course is a general survey of history up to 1914.

A required course for all sophomores, World History has a basic textbook supplemented by films as available. Innovations are expected under modular scheduling.

- 1/ALFRED H. OSLON: 2 years; B. S., Oregon College of Education; world history, assistant varsity football coach.
- 2/DAVID G. BOWMAN: 2 years; B. A., Denison University, M. A. T., University of Chicago; world history, photography; American Field Service advisor.
- 3/DON HEUBERGER: 2 years; B. S., Oregon College of Education; modern problems, world history, assistant J. V. football coach.

U.S. HISTORY

Trains Citizens

United States History classes strove to teach students the manner in which our country developed. Goals were not only an understanding of how the government is organized but also insight into political and economic problems that will lie before them.

The department expressed a desire for more materials, better systemized curriculum, and smaller classes. Overcrowding was handled partly by using extensive group work and offering individual studies programs to more advanced students. Modular scheduling will improve the situation, making the classes more beneficial to students.

- 1/ROSE TOLONEN: 18 years in district; B. S., M. E., University of Oregon; U. S. History; Social Studies chairman; supervisor of cadet teaching and advisor, Future Teachers of America. Here, she is assisting LaVon Thompson.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

International

Communication with others is a basic necessity of everyone's life. One way to better communication is through foreign languages.

The Foreign Language department at Astoria High School offered instruction in four areas—French, German, Spanish, and Latin. The instructors felt that through learning the language, the country's culture becomes clear along with a greater understanding of the people.

1/MAGDALENE GROSS: 10 years; B. A., Manhattanville College; M. A., Columbia University; German I, II, & III, French II, III, & IV; French club, European Club. She displays going-away gift.

ENGLISH STAFF

Favors Change

English involved many facets of education as it strove to train students to meet challenges of the future. The eight teachers encouraged development of advanced skills in literature and stressed reading and writing. A general topic among the teachers was communication, an endeavor to make students more open-minded and observant. Teachers supported modular scheduling and devoted much of their time preparing to introduce English as an elective. They expressed hope that students would learn responsibility under these programs.

5/JOSEPHINE SWANSON: 11 years; B. A. from University of Oregon and M. A. from Wellesley College; Junior English, head of English department, FTA advisor.

6/LINDA BINGHAM: 2 years; B. S. degree from Oregon College of Education; Junior English and Speech I; Junior class advisor.

SCIENCE OFFERINGS

Provide Variety

No matter what road a student takes after graduating, he'll always have use for the understanding of science he gained in high school studies. Astoria High School offered a variety of courses in science, including two levels of biology, General Chemistry, Chemistry Study, Chem II, Earth Science, and physics.

An attempt was made to group students according to ability. One year of science was required. Students were encouraged to perform up to their potential, and to take as many advanced courses as possible.

MATH PLANNING

Course Changes

Mathematics, an exacting challenge for students, provide training that is essential in the career and in the home.

The curriculum consisted of first and second-year algebra, trigonometry, and advanced senior math, which serves as an introduction to calculus in college.

In addition, senior review, a refresher course is taught. This coming year, it will be replaced by shop math and applied math. The one will be useful in industrial arts, and the other in home, shop and industry.

Work and Fun

Both hard work and fun were stressed in boys P.E. classes. In the gym, basketball, volleyball, and some gymnastics were the units of fun. Push-ups, sit-ups, jumping-jacks, leg lifts and tread mills are always part of the curriculum. Mr. Burns and Mr. Dominey supervised 299 boys in physical education except for first period class of 18 taught by Mr. Dulcich. Even with this large number, they managed to have a lot of fun themselves. Weather was a big factor in scheduling events because of the unusually wet and wild winter, but they were able to squeeze in a week of swimming in the fall, followed by the usual running in the spring.

- 1/VINCE DULCICH: 8 years; B. S., M. S., University of Oregon, director of athletics; A-club advisor.
- 2/CHUCK BURNS: 2 years; B. A., Oregon College of Education; physical education; varsity football coach; junior varsity basketball coach.
- 3/CARL DOMINEY: 2 years; Taft Junior College, associate of arts; B. A., Humboldt State College; physical education; track coach.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

Goal of Girls

Girls physical education teaches exercises and skills needed both in sports and for everyday health and fitness. Some of the activities in class were swimming, gymnastics, volleyball, badminton, basketball, and self-defense. The senior girls also learned bowling and archery. P.E. classes gave girls a chance to relax and unwind from the day's tensions, and many of the girls have expressed their appreciation. With the tendency toward super-developed minds and weak bodies, it is good to know that physical education classes can provide the needed exercises no longer a part of the normal day's activity.

- 1/BARBARA BROWN: 3 years; B. S. , Oregon College of Education; physical education; advisor of Girls Athletic Association.
- 2/ELIZABETH HEWITT: 2 years; B.S. , Oregon College of Education; physical education; assistant Girls Athletic Association and pepster-rally advisor. With her is Teresa Budde, P.E. assistant.

DRIVER TRAINING

Vital Skill

An essential part of a student's high school education is his seven-week stint in driver's education and his six hours of behind-the-wheel practice under supervision.

Driver's education, a state-required course, teaches driving skill and safety habits as well as financial responsibility.

Behind-the-wheel consists of six hours of driving in regular traffic. An elective, the course is for students who have taken the preliminary class. Students get experience in parallel parking, tire changing, and making decisions in emergencies. Because of limitations of time and cars, not all students get behind-the-wheel.

1/ALL STRAPPED IN and ready for a practice stint in driving is Terry Reneke. Her supervisor is Mr. Ted Sarpola.

2/TED SARPOLA: 6 years; B. S., University of Oregon; driver education.

3/ROSWELL PUTMAN: 7 years; B. S., Linfield College; driver education; varsity baseball coach.

COOPERATION KEY

Library Use

Trend in recent years has been to coordinate and consolidate traditional library and audio-visual materials. The high school library works in close cooperation with Mr. Reuben Jensen, audio-visual director, in meeting student needs. Next school year, the library will have a multiple hook-up of headphones so that eight students can listen to the same record or view the same film without disturbing others in the main library room.

An essential part of library operation last year was the 28 students who helped check out books and performed other necessary tasks.

Astoria does not have an A-V center operated by students. Virtually all work is done by the director.

- 1/MRS. NORA BUE: 10 years; library secretary.
 2/MARJORIE HALDERMAN: More than 30 years; B. A., University of Oregon; B. S. L. S., University of Southern California; librarian; Library club and A. F. S. foreign student advisor.

STORE, STUDY HALL

Lighten Day

In the cafeteria or auditorium study hall was where you found the atmosphere relaxing and enjoyable. Students worked on assignments, talked with friends or played cards. Study halls were designed mainly for homework so that students wouldn't have that extra burden.

Students enjoyed stereo music while doing what they liked best. Study hall also enabled some to learn those difficult card games such as Bridge, taught by Mrs. Gustafson in her spare time.

Without the aid of the Student Store you might not have that pencil or whatever it was that you forgot to buy the night before. Always there to lend a helping hand or sell an ice cream bar were the student aides.

Whether an orange or a pair of P.E. socks, the store might supply it. The store was there to make your day a little brighter.

OFFICE STAFF

Non-Expendable

Teachers and administrators can get sick or take off for meetings without anyone noticing much change in the school's routine. But let one of the office personnel or an aide disappear, and the whole school begins to fall apart. They serve everyone--administrators, teachers, and students.

Mrs. Clarke often can be seen doing at least four things at the same time--cashing a check, selling a bus-game ticket, writing a classroom admission slip, and answering a question. About that time the phone rings, or a teacher comes in looking for the revise of the revise of the latest inventory form. All others serve similar multiple duties in their areas.

- 1/TEACHER AIDES, Mrs. Donna Gustafson, 4 years in high school, and Mrs. Verna Davis, 6 years. Mrs. Gustafson manages the student store, and Mrs. Davis is study hall supervisor.
- 2/MRS. DOROTHY WELFLEY: 9 years; secretary to the guidance department and bookkeeper.
- 3/MRS. ALMA CLARKE: 13 years; head secretary.
- 4/MRS. EVANGELINE PETERSEN: first year; assistant secretary.

AUXILIARY STAFF

Tends School

The running of a school not only requires teachers and administrators, but also auxiliary personnel to do various cafeteria and maintenance tasks. These employees kept Astoria High School running smoothly by preparing food for students and faculty, doing the school laundry, and performing maintenance work. These people were a vital part of the school.

1/LAUNDRY for physical education is task of Christine Williams.

2/CAFETERIA is operated by Elsie Niemi, head cook; Phyllis Bennett, Jenny Nielson, Ethel Alsbury, Ellen Endicott, Leonara Mart, Merri Puikkula.

3/CUSTODIANS: Harold Paulsen, John Nordgren, Ben Wuori, Oliver Felt. Not shown: Oscar Hoffman, in charge.

GRADUATION

READINESS IS ALL

Finale Hectic

Seniors found themselves very much in the spotlight as the annual graduation ritual began. Girls found themselves especially in demand as community groups sought them for honor courts. Senior exams put school work to the test in a final review. Hardly before anyone knew it was happening, graduation became a reality with issue of caps and gowns (paper construction and permanent possession for the first time.) A brief religious service and baccalaureate was over.

LAST GATHERINGS

Set Memories

Last days of seniors in high school were crammed with honors, excitement and fun.

The class of 234 joined in their final assembly for announcements of awards and scholarships, followed by entertainment by class members and the reading of the class will.

A threatening drizzle somewhat discouraged attendance for the annual outing, but about 100 seniors boarded the barge for a trip upriver to a sand island for a day of picnicking. Menu was barbecued chicken, potato salad, rolls, pop, and ice cream bars.

A capacity-packed gymnasium attended Astoria High's 97th Commencement on June 4.

Student speakers were Robb Law, valedictorian; Donald Orwick, salutatorian; Rod Leback, student body president; Giomar Traverso, exchange student from Ecuador; and Christie Hansen, invocation. Rob Jacobson senior class president, introduced members as they received diplomas.

- 1/ALMA MATER is sung for last time before graduated class leaves gym.
- 2/DIPLOMA is handed to Sharen Forman by Mr. Lester Spofford, chairman of board of District 1-C.
- 3/AN APPARENTLY STARTLING report card attracts attention of Joyce Romsos over shoulder of Chris Carsner after rites.

*...Visions of childhood!
Stay, o h, stay!
Ye were so sweet and wild!
And distant voices
seemed to say,
"It cannot be! They pass away!"*

OTHERWISE DESIGNATED.

Youngs Bay Bridge at night by Richard Blakely is fitting closing scene for 1971 Zephyrus.

Acknowledgements

On the last page of the 1971 Zephyrus, we would like to take this opportunity to thank some people without whom this book might not have come out. A special thanks goes to Mr. Jim Bingham and Ball Studio for time and sacrifices made. We would also like to thank Mr. John Price, our advisor. He put up with a great deal, and worked harder on this book than anyone else.

We would like to thank Mr. Reuben Jensen, who did most of our candid photography. Others doing photography were Mr. Dave Bowman, Mr. Price, Kent Beck, Richard Blakely, Jim Dunagan, Linda Duncan. The ASTORIAN and Mr. Don Roberts and Mr. Grady Pannell filled many gaps in our picture taking. Paula Mestrich and others of G.A.A. helped with volleyball and basketball photos.

Mr. Al Jacobson supervised and assisted in bookkeeping. Mrs. Lois Klessig's office practice class did much business typing. Mrs. Alma Clarke, head secretary, was a great help. Mr. Bob Paffrath of American Yearbook was our helpful consultant. Cover was by Phil Crume. Mr. Bill Gunderson aided in art. Patient teachers everywhere made this book possible, AND THANKS TO ALL WHO BOUGHT BOOKS.
